An act to repeal Section 3701.9 of the Labor code, relating to workers' compensation.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

SB 1373, as introduced, Walters. Workers' compensation: self-insure.

Existing law prohibits, for purposes of workers' compensation, a certificate of consent to self-insure from being issued after January 1, 2013, to a professional employer organization, a leasing employer, a temporary services employer, or any employer which the Director of Industrial Relations determines is in the business of providing employees to other employers. A certificate of consent to self-insure that had already been issued to any of these employers shall be revoked by the director not later than January 1, 2015.

This bill would repeal the above prohibition on certificates of consent to self-insure from being issued to those employers.
